The Dossiers are the product of HLC research on possible perpetrators of war crimes committed during the wars of the 1990s on the territory of the former Yugoslavia. The Dossiers aim to present to the general public evidence and information on mass crimes whose perpetrators have not yet been brought to justice. The Dossiers urge government institutions to prosecute all those responsible for war crimes, either as perpetrators or order-givers, or on the basis of command responsibility, in order to establish the rule of law and deal with the violent past in post-Yugoslav states.

I. Introduction

The mass grave in Rudnica is the first mass grave on the territory of Serbia discovered after the termination of the mandate of the ICTY to conduct investigations into the crimes committed in the former Yugoslavia.

Three mass graves containing the bodies of 889 Kosovo Albanians, mainly civilians, were found in the Spring of 2001 at three locations in Serbia - in Batajnica, a suburb of Belgrade, in Petrovo Selo (eastern Serbia) and by Lake Perućac (western Serbia). In the cases of Šainović et al. and Đorđević, the ICTY established the facts regarding the circumstances under which the murders of most of the civilians whose remains were exhumed at these three locations had occurred. According to the ICTY’s judgments, these crimes were committed as part of the implementation of a joint criminal enterprise whose aim was to establish effective control of Serbian authorities over Kosovo through the changing of the ethnic balance and the deportation of Albanians from Kosovo. In addition, the ICTY established that the MUP had the key role in transporting and hiding the corpses in the aforementioned graves, and that the VJ, independently or in cooperation with the MUP, participated in the collection of corpses in the area.

In view of the fact that the evidence of crimes resulting in the murders of civilians whose mortal remains were found in Rudnica and the circumstances surrounding the concealing of their bodies were not presented before the ICTY, the aim of this Dossier is to familiarize the public with evidence regarding the responsibility of the members of the VJ and MUP for the killings of Kosovo Albanians whose mortal remains were found in Rudnica, as well as to present the evidence which point to those who participated in the operations of transporting and concealing the bodies at secret locations.

The data used for the preparation of this Dossier come from two main sources. The first source is that of the survivors – witnesses, members of the victims’ families and eyewitnesses of the crimes who have given statements to the HLC and HLC Kosovo about the events which preceded the crimes, the circumstances of the crimes, the perpetrators, their uniforms, weapons, equipment, the removal of the victims’ bodies, etc. The second source consists of the authentic military and police documents which were presented in the form of exhibits in the two cases before the ICTY mentioned above. These include orders to launch military operations, to set up defensive and combat control of the territory, to conduct “the clear-up of the battlefield”, to submit regular combat reports and reports on

1 According to the investigation conducted by the HLC and HLC Kosovo, around 7,000 Kosovo Albanian civilians were either murdered or forcibly disappeared in the operations launched by the armed forces of the then Federal Republic of Yugoslavia and the Republic of Serbia in Kosovo in the period from January 1998 to mid-June 1999. List of victims available at www.kosovomemorybook.org

the control of movement within a certain area, to register civilians, to deploy police units in the area, etc. In addition to the official documents of the VJ and MUP, the Dossier also relies on the testimony of the VJ officers and MUP officials before the ICTY, the Official Gazette of the Ministry of Defence – the “Vojska” [“Military”] magazine, maps and other sources.

The documents of the VJ and MUP considered by the ICTY in the Šainović et al. and Đorđević cases are only a part of the VJ’s and MUP’s archives that are relevant to the operations in Kosovo during 1998 and 1999, and relate first and foremost to the operations during which the crimes included in these two indictments were committed. These documents permit a significant insight into the positioning and engagement of the units in other operations conducted by the VJ and MUP during which crimes against Albanian civilians were committed (and which were not the subject of the aforementioned indictments) and a reconstruction of the larger picture of the VJ and MUP units’ activity throughout the entire Kosovo.

However, it should be pointed out that the documents submitted by the VJ and MUP to the ICTY are most likely incomplete; in other words, they do not include all of the documents relevant for the operations in Kosovo during 1998 and 1999 - documents which were, under a reasonable assumption, in the possession of the VJ and MUP. With regard to this, in the Đorđević case, the ICTY assessed that this was a matter of an obvious intention to conceal written evidence which was incriminating for members of the VJ and MUP:

The Chamber concludes that there was a conspiracy of silence at all levels of the MUP and the VJ, as is evidenced from the almost complete absence of any reports, records or minutes of meetings, whether at the highest political, MUP or VJ levels, or of the Joint Command or operative elements of the MUP or VJ, of any information about the progress, success or failure of the efforts of Serbian forces to deal with the KLA, the Kosovo Albanian population, and to ensure there would be no support for a NATO ground force. In the view of the Chamber, it is not feasible to accept that these subjects, which were critical to the very survival of the Serbian government and nation, and were the central focus of the primary effort of the government and Serbian forces, went unreported to, and unknown by, the highest levels of government, MUP, and VJ. In the Chamber’s finding, either all written records have been destroyed, or there was a very determined effort at all levels to avoid written records so that there could be nothing on which international investigations could proceed, or both. This leads to the finding that there was reporting, oral and/or written, and knowledge at all top levels, political, VJ and MUP, of the actual activities on the ground in Kosovo, and the progress of operations. This inference is further supported by the few written records that have been found, and conduct which evidences knowledge at the most senior Serbian levels; these records include minutes of meetings, the posting of all available combat ready police to Kosovo (including paramilitaries), and conduct such as the removal and concealment of bodies.⁴

⁴ ICTY Trial Judgment in the Đorđević case rendered on February 23rd 2011, para. 2108.
However, despite the fragmented documentation of the VJ and MUP which is in the possession of the ICTY Court Records database, it is possible to provide a reliable reconstruction of the deployment of units and of the operations in which the civilians whose bodies were found in Rudnica had been killed. The data and evidence presented in this Dossier provide sufficient grounds for launching an investigation against several persons for the execution and concealing of crimes, which they committed either as direct perpetrators and/or for which they had command responsibility. Therefore, the HLC calls on the OWCP to take the necessary action needed to prosecute those responsible for the crimes, without further delay.

The priority of action for the competent institutions must be directed at detecting the location(s) where the bodies of the persons killed together with the persons whose mortal remains were found in Rudnica are buried. The data presented in this Dossier undoubtedly point to individuals and institutions which must have knowledge about what happened with the bodies of the killed persons after the commission of these crimes.

When it comes to finding the remaining secret mass graves containing the bodies of Kosovo Albanians in Serbia, the key preconditions are: the prosecution of the individuals responsible, the unfettered opening of the archives of the VJ and MUP concerning operations in Kosovo and the formation of an independent commission to analyze the archives, as well as the dismissal from public office of any persons who participated in the crimes or operations to hide the bodies, or had any knowledge about the crimes or subsequent operations.

II. Summary

At the time of the publication of this Dossier (January 2015), the mortal remains of 52 people were exhumed from Rudnica and identified. DNA analysis conducted on the remains has shown that they belong to Kosovo Albanians killed during the Kosovo conflict in 1999. According to a representative of the Commission on Missing Persons of the Government of the Republic of Serbia, search of the Rudnica site will continue if the relevant institutions come up with new data.

Information about the existence of the grave was disclosed by a Kosovo Albanian during the investigation into the “Drenica Group” case, which was conducted before the District Court in Mitrovicë/Mitrovica. Relevant institutions have searched this location on several occasions since 2007, and the first human remains were exhumed in 2013.

The mass grave in Rudnica is located right next to a lot of land that has been used by the VJ since an undetermined date before 1999. The VJ built a barracks over it, which, according to the Ministry of Defence, was put into operation in 2002 and then in 2006 handed over to the MUP.

All persons whose bodies were found in Rudnica were civilians who had been killed or forcibly disappeared in four separate crimes committed by members of the VJ and MUP in April and May 1999 in the Drenica area (area in central Kosovo covering the municipalities of Skënderaj/Srbica and Glogoc/Glogovac). On the basis of the analysis of available data, the Dossier describes in great detail the four crimes in which the civilians whose bodies were found in Rudnica had been killed. Two military-police actions, carried out in Rezallë/Rezala and Çikatovë e Vjeter/Staro Çikatovo, in the course of which two mass crimes were committed, have been reconstructed to a large extent. At least 68 civilians were killed in these actions, of which 47 were found in Rudnica. In connection with the forcible disappearance, that is the killing of five civilians in Zabel i Ulët/Donji Zabelj and Gllanasellë/Gladno Selo, documents were provided that indicate the presence of certain military and police units in the villages at the time these crimes were committed.

The bodies of 10 persons killed in the crime in Rezallë/Rezala on April 5th 1999 have not yet been found.

The villages where the crimes against the victims whose bodies were hidden in Rudnica took place were at the relevant time in the zone of responsibility of the Yugoslav Army’s 37th Motorized Brigade (37th mtbr). During this period, several actions were carried out under the command of the 37th mtbr, in which military as well as police units took part. According to military documents, their task was to “destroy SHTF” [“Shiptar terrorist forces” – author’s note]. The 37th mtbr had its home barracks in Raška, had 4,500 members and was equipped with infantry and artillery weapons and tanks.

Analyses of military and police documents, eyewitness accounts and other sources strongly suggest that the crimes in Rezallë/Rezala and Çikatovë e Vjeter/Staro Çikatovo were committed by members of the 37th mtbr, as part of the “SHTF destruction” actions. Besides the 37th mtbr, the involvement of an as-yet-unidentified police unit in the crime in Rezallë/Rezala was also documented, while in Çikatovë e Vjeter/Staro Çikatovo, a smaller formation of the VJ’s 15th Armoured Brigade (15th okbr) and the 86th detachment of the Special Police Units (PJP) were present at the time. Eyewitnesses and survivors of the crime in Çikatovë e Vjeter/Staro Çikatovo and Rezallë/Rezala recognized the military uniforms worn by the members of the Serbian forces who were involved in these crimes.

Based on the available sources, it is not possible to determine with certainty which military unit was responsible for the forcible disappearance of four civilians from the village of Zabel and Ulët/Donji Zabelj. From the testimony of several eyewitnesses, it can be concluded that it was members of the military police. However, military documents point to the presence of the 37th mtbr and the 15th okbr in and around Zabel i Ulët/Donji Zabelj at the relevant time. According to eyewitness accounts, Rrahman Nika was killed by members of the VJ in Gllanasellë/Gladno Selo. According to documents of the Third Army, a substantial part of the 37th mtbr forces were deployed in and around Gllanasellë/Gladno Selo on the day in question.

As for the removal of the bodies of those killed and their transfer to Rudnica, only some of the events and actions of representatives of the institutions of the former Federal Republic of Yugoslavia and the Republic of Serbia that led to the concealment of the bodies in Rudnica have so far been reconstructed.
More specifically, the Dossier has identified only the initial link in the chain of institutions that took part in the removal of the bodies of the murdered civilians.

The so-called ‘clearing up of the battlefield’ in the area of Rezallë/Rezala, Çikatovë e Vjeter/Staro Čikatovo, Zabel i Ulët/Donji Zabelj and Gllanasellë/Gladno Selo was the responsibility of the 37th mtbr. There is irrefutable evidence indicating that the brigade’s Squad for clearing up of the battlefield had first-hand knowledge of the bodies of people killed in Rezallë/Rezala and informed the brigade Command of this. Military documents indicate that the 37th mtbr was responsible also for the clearing up of the battlefield following other crimes in these villages that are described in this Dossier.

According to international law and the instructions given by the Priština Corps at the relevant time, the clearing up of the battlefield involved an extensive procedure entailing identification, burying and making lists of the bodies found, that was carried out together with the civilian authorities. Also, the applicable regulations required the notification of military investigative bodies of any indications that crimes had been committed. However, the available documents and the very fact that the bodies remained hidden in a secret location for 15 years conclusively prove that the bodies of the victims from Rezallë/Rezala, Çikatovë e Vjeter/Staro Čikatovo, Zabel i Ulët/Donji Zabelj and Gllanasellë/Gladno Selo were treated in a manner contrary to the rules of international law.

It should be noted that the Ministry of Defence has denied the HLC access to several documents that are not available in the ICTY Judicial Database, justifying it by stating, among other things, that providing access to the requested documents would be detrimental to the operational and functional capability of the Serbian Army (VS). The requested documents would greatly contribute to a more complete reconstruction of the events depicted in the Dossier.

During the analysis of the material compiled while writing the Dossier, a large number of individuals were identified who at the very least “knew or had reason to know” that crimes had been committed in the aforementioned villages, as well as individuals who ordered and carried out the removal of the bodies. Most of them are former members of the 37th mtbr, including its then commander and the incumbent Chief of General Staff of the VS, Ljubiša Diković. Finding out what they know about the crimes, along with the examination of witnesses and of the documents the HLC has managed to obtain - and of those stored in the VS archive which the HLC could not obtain - are the first and key steps to an independent and comprehensive investigation aimed at identifying those responsible for the killings in Rezallë/Rezala, Çikatovë e Vjeter/Staro Čikatovo, Zabel i Ulët/Donji Zabelj and Gllanasellë/Gladno Selo, and for keeping the bodies of the victims hidden for 15 years.

III. ‘The clearing-up of the battlefield’ by the VJ and MUP units during the war in Kosovo

1. The Geneva Conventions and Additional Protocols prescribe rules of procedure for the treatment of bodies of dead persons during an armed conflict. A party involved in a conflict is obligated to make, in the shortest possible period of time, a record of all the details which can contribute to the identification of the deceased.\(^5\) The Conventions and Protocols also require from the states that, before the burial of the dead, a medical examination of the bodies should be performed with the aim of ascertaining death, and identifying the person and the cause of their death.\(^6\) In addition, parties involved in a conflict are obligated to ensure that the deceased individuals are properly buried, if possible according to the rituals of their confession, and that their graves are respected, decently maintained and marked in a way so that they can always be found.\(^7\)

2. During the war in Kosovo, organized and coordinated actions of finding and removing human bodies from open spaces and facilities were conducted by VJ and MUP units as part of the procedure called ‘the clearing-up of the battlefield’. The term ‘clearing-up of the battlefield’; according to the terminology of the VJ, included taking sanitary- hygienic, sanitary-technical and other necessary measures and activities aimed at finding and collecting or removing dead people and animals, and at removing all things hazardous to the health of humans and animals and harmful to the environment.\(^8\)

3. The actions of the VJ and MUP units which conducted ‘clearing-up of the battlefield’ operations during the war in Kosovo were contrary to the rules of international law. According to the findings of the ICTY, the VJ and MUP forces conducted coordinated actions with the unlawful purpose of concealing evidence of the crimes committed.\(^9\)

4. This is corroborated by the fact that, in addition to the evidence of the mass grave in Rudnica, over 900 bodies of Kosovo Albanian civilians have been found in secret locations in mass graves in Serbia, and that another 900 Kosovo Albanians are still reported as missing. In other words, had the VJ and MUP forces acted in accordance with the aforementioned rules, the public and the competent authorities would have been informed by the VJ and MUP immediately after the end of the conflict of the whereabouts of the bodies that were collected during the ‘clearing-up’ of the battlefield.

5. As the ICTY ascertained in the Đorđević judgment, the VJ, either independently or in cooperation with members of the MUP, collected bodies on the ground, which the MUP forces then hid in secret locations. On the basis of the exhibits presented, the ICTY was unable to establish the participation of the VJ in the operations of transferring bodies to three mass graves in Serbia.\(^{10}\)

6. Vladimir Lazarević, Commander of the Pristina Corps of the VJ (PrC), on March 31\(^{st}\) 1999 issued an order for ‘clearing up the battlefield’ to all commands of brigades deployed in Kosovo, instructing the VJ forces to conduct clear-ups in their areas of responsibility, together with the MUP, “in cooperation with the authorities (military prosecutors, municipal authorities)”.\(^{11}\)

7. Although according to this document it was ordered that the VJ were to conduct the clearing-up in border areas, and the MUP in the interior, from numerous other military documents as well as the ICTY findings, it is evident that the VJ conducted the clearing-up in the interior of Kosovo as well.\(^{12}\)

8. According to the order of the PrC dated March 31\(^{st}\) 1999, the procedures of the clearing-up were conducted by special units within VJ brigades – a squad, which included, among other persons, the investigative judge, the commander of the squad, a medical technician and a veterinary technician. Regarding technology, the squad had at its disposition two freight cars of two and a half tons. As part of the procedure of clearing-up, the commander of the squad issued the orders and the investigative judge dealt with the professional part of the process.\(^{13}\)

9. The procedure for dealing with the civilian bodies that the squad would find provided for the delivery of the bodies to the authorities in whose jurisdiction the bodies were found, making the list of persons buried and sketching the burial site. The commander of the squad handed over a copy of the list of buried persons and the sketch of the burial site to the municipal representatives and the registrar. Personal belongings of persons of unknown identity were handed over to the military section or garrison command.\(^{14}\) information about the clearing-up of the battlefield and the manner of dealing with the bodies found in the field during the war in Kosovo in 1998 and 1999. The findings of the two bodies were diametrically opposed. While the findings of the body which was formed by the MUP elucidated the circumstances surrounding the participation of high-ranking government officials in the concealment of the bodies of Kosovo Albanians and contributed to the discovery of new sites of mass graves, the findings of the body established by the VJ were that the Army acted in accordance with international and domestic laws.

10. Acting on orders, the commands of the brigades subordinate to the PrC issued individual orders on the establishment of squads for clearing-up within the brigades.

12. In May 2001, Dušan Mihajlović the then Minister of the Interior of the Republic of Serbia, established a working group of the MUP with the task to investigate the case of a refrigerator truck containing bodies found in April 1999 in the Danube, near Tekija (eastern Serbia), which were still unidentified at the time. The members of the working group included among others Dragan Karleuša, Dragan Furdulović, Dragan Mirčić, Bora Banjac and, for some time, Milorad Veljović. According to the findings of the working group, in March 1999 a meeting was held in the office of Slobodan Milošević, which was attended by Milošević himself, as well as by Vlajko Stojiljković (the Minister of the Interior), Vlastimir Đorđević (the Head of the RJB) and Radomir Marković (the Head of the RDB). During the meeting, Đorđević raised the issue of the cleaning of the terrain in Kosovo, which he referred to as the 'clearing-up'. Milošević then ordered Stojiljković to “take measures to eliminate all traces which could point to the existence of evidence of crimes committed.” On the basis of the information gathered, the working group established the existence of mass graves containing the bodies of Kosovo Albanians in Batajnica, Perućac and Petrovo Selo.

13. In May 2001, the General Staff of the VJ established a Commission for the collection of materials on executed clear-ups of the battlefield on the territory of Kosovo and Metohija. The Chairman of the Commission was Major General Momčilo Krgović, a doctor by profession, and his Deputy was Major General Aco Tomić, at the time the Head of the First Department of the Counterintelligence Service of the VJ.

14. The Commission’s report states that the VJ units deployed in Kosovo during 1999 in their areas of responsibility conducted the clearing-up of 56 sites, where they found 208 human bodies. In addition, the report states that the VJ exhumed nine mass graves, from which they dug up 203 bodies. Forensic analysis was carried out by the military authorities, but only 76 bodies were identified. Among the identified bodies from the nine mentioned mass graves were the bodies of Albanian civilians murdered in Izbicë/Izbica on March 28th 1999, which were found in the mass grave in Petrovo Selo in 2001.

15. At 13 other sites the VJ found at least 667 bodies, „for which it was determined with certainty that the deaths of these persons were not caused by the activity of members of the VJ”. According to the report, the Commission received the information regarding these bodies from “the security departments of the units which were deployed in Kosovo”, without specifying how this could have been determined with certainty, or whether the military investigative bodies participated in the procedure.\(^{21}\)

16. 10 out of 13 mentioned sites are located in the region of Drenica, which was in the area of responsibility of the 37th mtbr during 1999. These locations include, among others, Rezallë/Rezala and Çikatovë e Vjeter/Staro Çikatovo, the villages where the civilians whose bodies were found in Rudnica had been executed.

17. In the ICRC Missing Persons Database, 53 persons from the aforementioned 13 sites are still reported as missing in connection with the events of 1999, including 10 persons murdered in Rezallë/Rezala on April 5th 1999.\(^{22}\)

IV. Discovery of the mass grave in Rudnica

18. According to the available data, the information about the existence of a mass grave in Rudnica emerged during the investigation into the case of the “Drenica Group”, which was conducted before the District Court in Mitrovicë/Mitrovica.\(^{23}\) A witness, who was later on charged with the commission of a crime in the indictment raised in that case, indicated that in 1999 the bodies of Albanians murdered during the war in Kosovo were brought to the old quarry in Rudnica, and that later on that site was covered up with dirt and partially paved.\(^{24}\)

3 The case of Prosecutor against Ismet Haxha and others was conducted before the District court in Mitrovicë/Kosovska Mitrovica in the period from April 22nd to May 29th 2014 when the trial judgment was pronounced by which the defendants Ismet Haxha, Shefki Hyseni, Nexhat Qubreli and Sulejman Selimi were freed of charges of war crime against civilian population, committed against Albanian civilians in Kosovo.
19. The investigating authorities of the Republic of Serbia searched the locations in the quarry in Rudnica for the first time in 2007, and then in 2010, 2011, 2013 and 2014. The first mortal remains were found on December 13th 2013.

20. The OWCP, in its first statement regarding the mass grave in Rudnica in May 2010, stated that it is suspected that the bodies are those of 250 Kosovo Albanians. In the following statement, the OWCP specified that the mortal remains in Rudnica are “mortal remains brought from primary graves in the area of Drenica in Kosovo.” Finally, DNA analysis conducted in April 2014 confirmed that the mortal remains found in Rudnica are those of Kosovo Albanians murdered during the war in Kosovo in the area of Drenica.²⁹

21. According to the statement made by Veljko Odalović, the Chairman of the Commission for Missing Persons of the Government of the Republic of Serbia, the excavations in Rudnica were terminated on August 22nd 2014, but will be continued “in the case of any serious information and valid evidence.”³⁰ At the time of the publication of this Dossier, the excavations in Rudnica have not been resumed.

V. The site of the grave

22. Rudnica village is located in Raska municipality, in southern Serbia. The mass grave is located in an abandoned quarry, about 10 metres from the regional motorway between Raska and Leposaviq/Leposavić, in the vicinity of the border-crossing at Jarinje, between Serbia and Kosovo.³¹

23. The site of the mass grave is about 80km away from Rezallë/Rezala, 95km from Çikatovë e Vjeter/Staro Čikatovo, 100km from Zabel i Ulët/Donji Zabel and about 100km from Gllanasellë/Gladno Selo.

24. The mass grave is located in the immediate vicinity of the „Rudnica“ barracks built by the VJ. These are two neighboring lots of land separated by the cliff of the quarry. The distance between the barracks and the grave site is about 5 metres as the crow flies (see Photo 1).

25. According to research by the HLC, the land on which the mass grave was discovered in Rudnica belongs to the „Kosmetput“ company, which was set up in February 1999, with its central office in the village of Lešak (Municipality of Leposaviq/Leposavić).³² „Kosmetput“ registered the branch in Rudnica at the Agency for Business Registers.³³

³¹ The border-crossing at Jarinje is the only official crossing between Serbia and Kosovo, which connects the northern part of Kosovo (municipalities of Mitrovicë/MITROVICA, Leposaviq/LEPOSAVIĆ, Zubin Potok) with the south of Serbia.
26. An investigator from the HLC spoke with two authorized individuals employed in the „Kosmetput“ company. According to them, at the beginning of 1999 „Kosmetput“ bought a lot of 50 acres in Rudnica from the „Megalit Raška“ company. There were no buildings on the purchased land. In May 1999, „Kosmetput“ built an administrative building (the excavations of the mass grave were carried out underneath this building). Both individuals explicitly stated that the mortal remains were not found underneath the administrative building, but were located in the parking lot which is in front of the building where the machinery is kept. They were aware that excavations have been conducted since 2007, but they claim that they received the order for the transfer of machinery only in the autumn of 2013, since when they have had no access to the administrative building and other facilities. During the excavations the administrative building was taken down.34

27. The HLC contacted a representative of the „Megalit Raška“ company, who confirmed that at the beginning of 1999 this company sold about 50 acres of land in Rudnica to the „Kosmetput“ company. The land was sold by the order of the Serbian government at that time, because Kosmetput had to move the mechanization from Kosovo to Serbia.35

28. The military barracks located next to the quarry where the mass grave was found is situated on the land lot which also belonged to the „Megalit Raška“ company. According to the representative of „Megalit Raška“, before the year 1999 this company conceded a few hectares of its land in Rudnica to the VJ, which later built the barracks there (see Photo 1).36

29. The HLC investigators established that the facilities of the barracks at „Rudnica“ are now used by the Gendarmerie of the Ministry of the Interior of the Republic of Serbia.

30. On June 13th 2014, the HLC sent a request for access to information of public importance to the Ministry of Defence of the Republic of Serbia, in which it requested the Ministry to provide the information when the Rudnica barracks was formed, who was its head, whether the barracks still exists and, if so, who is its head now, as well as the contract by which the „Megalit Raška“ company conceded its land to the VJ.37

31. In reply to the HLC, the Ministry of Defence stated that the barracks was „put into operation in 2002“ and that „the personnel who were engaged in securing the administrative border with Kosovo and Metohija were accommodated there“. It also stated that the barracks did not have a specific commander and that in 2006 it was conceded to the MUP. In its reply, the Ministry also pointed out that “a photocopy of the contract by which the Megalit Raška company conceded the land on which the military barracks was built to the VJ could not be found.”

VI. Exhumation and identification of bodies

32. To date, the mortal remains of 52 persons have been exhumed from the mass grave in Rudnica. Although excavations were conducted at three sites in Rudnica, all of the bodies were exhumed from one site – in the immediate vicinity of the administrative building of a branch of the „Kosmetput“ company.

33. According to the data of the Office for Missing Persons of the Government of the Republic of Kosovo, a total of 52 bodies have been identified: 27 bodies of civilians murdered in Rezallë/Rezala (Municipality of Skënderaj/Srbica); 20 bodies of civilians killed in Çikatovë e Vjetër/Staro Čikatovo (Municipality of Glogovac/Glogovac); four bodies of civilians killed in Zabel i Ulët/Donji Zabelj (Municipality of Glogovac/Glogovac) and one body of a civilian killed in Gllanasellë/Gladno Selo (Municipality of Glogovac/Glogovac).

34. The Commission for Missing Persons of the Government of the Republic of Serbia has not publicly communicated the exact number nor the identity of the persons found in the mass grave in Rudnica, and the HLC’s request for information on the identity of exhumed victims was denied by the Commission, on the grounds that the exhumation procedure is under the jurisdiction of the Higher Court in Belgrade.

35. On August 22nd 2014, the competent authorities of the Republic of Serbia handed over the mortal remains of 16 persons to EULEX at the border crossing at Merdare. Following that, on September 12th 2014 the mortal remains of 24 persons were handed over, and the remaining 12 bodies on October 13th 2014.

VII. Crimes in which the civilians whose bodies were found in Rudnica had been killed

36. All the persons whose bodies were found in Rudnica were civilians, who were either killed or forcibly disappeared in four separate crimes committed by members of the VJ and the MUP during April and May in 1999 in the region of Drenica (the region in central Kosovo including the municipalities of Skënderaj/Srbica and Gllogoc/Glogovac).

1. The murder of at least 41 civilians in Rezallë/Rezala

37. The village of Rezallë/Rezala is located around 7km south from the town of Skënderaj/Srbica. Based on the evidence obtained, the HLC has determined that on April 5th 1999 the members of the VJ and MUP drove the citizens of the village of Rezallë/Rezala out of their houses and then killed at least 41 Albanian civilians, 39 of whom in one mass execution. The members of the VJ covered the bodies of the murdered persons with earth. 27 out of the 41 bodies of victims who had been killed in Rezallë/Rezala were found in the mass grave at Rudnica, and 10 victims are still reported as missing.

38. The evidence leads to the conclusion that the crime in Rezallë/Rezala was committed as part of an operation of military-police forces under the command of the 37th mtbr. Members of the 37th mtbr and for now unidentified units of the MUP participated in the crime. The bodies of those killed in this crime remained in Rezallë/Rezala under the control of the 37th mtbr until April 13th, when they were transported by a truck to an unknown direction.

1.1. Description of events based on witness statements

39. On April 5th 1999, around 9 a.m., members of the Serbian forces accompanied by tanks and armored vehicles entered Rezallë/Rezala coming from the direction of the villages of Morinë/Morina and Likoc/Likovac (Municipality of Skënderaj/Srbica).46 Shortly afterwards, members of the Serbian forces dressed in green and blue camouflage uniforms, some wearing helmets and some wearing hats, and with white armbands, began to enter Albanian houses and ordering the villagers and the refugees in the village to gather at the village primary school in the village center.47 While leaving the house, an elderly villager was shot in the head, before the eyes of his family.48

40. When a few hundred villagers had gathered at the school, the members of the Serbian forces ordered them to enter the backyard of a nearby house which belonged to Hashim Derguti.49 They were ordered to sit on the ground. The members of the Serbian forces searched them and confiscated their money, jewelry and other valuables. Occasionally, while looting the valuables, they beat the men with rifle butts, with their wives, children and other family members standing by.\textsuperscript{50}

41. At around 5 p.m., the members of the Serbian forces (whom the witnesses identified as police officers)\textsuperscript{51} who were keeping the civilians in Hashim Derguti’s backyard left the backyard and went to the village of Likoc/Likovac; whereupon the backyard was entered by a larger group of members of the Serbian forces that one survivor described as younger members of the VJ, who had arrived at the site in a few trucks.\textsuperscript{52} They ordered the women and children to leave the backyard and head for the neighboring village of Makërmal/Makrmalj.

42. According to the survivors’ statements, when the women and children had left, the Serbian forces ordered the men to stand in a column two by two, and then took them 50m away from the house, near to the village cemetery. In that place, they were lined up along the fence, so that they were facing the members of the Serbian forces. The members of the Serbian forces drove tractors which were making a lot of noise around the detained men.\textsuperscript{53} After a few minutes, the men were shot at, first with a machine-gun which had been set up on the first floor of Hashim Derguti’s house, and then with the automatic rifles of the members of the Serbian forces facing the men. After about ten minutes, the members of the Serbian forces approached the executed men to check whether they were all dead. Those who were still alive were then killed with further bursts from rifles.\textsuperscript{54}

43. The members of the Serbian forces killed 39 civilians on the spot, while two survived the shooting because they were covered by the bodies of men that had fallen on top of them. Among the killed civilians there were three boys, whilst the oldest victim was 97 years old.\textsuperscript{55} At least two more civilians were killed in the nearby forest.\textsuperscript{56}

44. The bodies of the executed civilians remained at the scene of the crime. The following day, April 6\textsuperscript{th} 1999, the soldiers came back to the village and covered the bodies with earth.\textsuperscript{57} Approximately one week later, the soldiers came back to the village, dug up the bodies, loaded them into a truck and then drove with them in the direction of Mitrovicë/Mitrovica.\textsuperscript{58}

45. The mortal remains of 27 civilians shot in Rezallë/Rezala were found in Rudnica mass grave: \textbf{Burim} (Xhemajl) \textbf{Zabeli} (1987), \textbf{Besim} (Skender) \textbf{Rukolli} (1983), \textbf{Perparim} (Uke) \textbf{Hoti} (1983),

47. The mortal remains of Isuf (Ibrahim) Rukolli (1957) and Isa (Mursel) Zabeli (1933), who were executed with the other civilians, were found after the war in the Derguti family cemetery in Rezallë/Rezala.61

1.2. Other sources

48. The killings of the citizens and refugees in the village of Rezallë/Rezala and the removal of their bodies were also documented by journalists of The Guardian and the Human Rights Watch.62

1.3. Military documents and testimonies of VJ officers

49. According to the official military documents, on the day of the crime in Rezallë/Rezala (April 5th, 1999), in the wider region of Gornja Drenica, which includes Rezallë/Rezala village, Serbian forces conducted an operation under the command of the 37th mtbr. Military documents and statements given by officers of this brigade point to the fact that members of the 37th mtbr in cooperation with a still unidentified MUP unit participated in the commission of the crime in Rezallë/Rezala. The bodies of the killed were under the jurisdiction of the Clearing-up Squad of the 37th mtbr at least until April 13th 1999.

60 ICRC, Missing persons on the territory of Kosovo in connection with the events from January 1998, June 2014.

1.3.1. Mobilization and arrival of the 37th mtbr in Drenica

50. The first part of the 37th mtbr came to the region of Drenica in early March 1999 on the orders of the Command of the Užice Corps of the Second Army of the VJ. The document of the Pristina Corps Command of the VJ dated March 28th 1999 confirms that the 37th mtbr at that time was already conducting operations in Drenica and requires bringing the rest of the brigade to Drenica. In the document, the 37th mtbr is required to: “secure communications between Skënderaj/Srbica-Glogovac and Skënderaj/Srbica-Klinë/Kliina and full combat control of the territory.” Rezallë/Rezala village is located in the midst of the communication line – the routes of Skënderaj/Srbica – Glogovac and Skënderaj/Srbica – Klinë/Kliina (see Map 1).

51. The 37th mtbr of the VJ reported on the implementation of this order in the combat report on March 30th 1999, where it is stated that the units of this brigade took control of “facilities suitable for the control of territory and roads that go from Glogovac/Glogovac and Klinë/Kliina to Skënderaj/Srbica and Mitrovicë/Kosovska Mitrovica.”

52. On April 1st, 1999 at 10 pm, the Command of the 37th mtbr issued a marching order, in which the 37th mtbr is instructed to occupy the area that includes Rezallë/Rezala:

“Execute the march [...] to reach the marching destination in the region of Srbica [Skënderaj], deploy units around the area, with the following objective: upon completion of the march and occupation of the region [...] deliver control of the wider area of Drenica [...] Likovac [Likoc], Rezala [Rezallë].” [italics added by HLC]

53. It was not the entire 37th mtbr that participated in the aforementioned march, but only 12 of its units. On the following day, the commander of the PrC, Vladimir Lazarević, committed additional forces of the 37th mtbr to that area. On April 2nd 1999, the Priština Corps Command issued an order for the engagement of the 37th mtbr, which provided for the following to be carried out upon the completion of the mobilization: „by applying strong action crush and destroy the SHTF in the area as soon as possible, secure main transportation routes [Skënderaj/Srbica – Glogovac/Glogovac and Skënderaj/Srbica – Klinë/Kliina – author’s note] and secure full combat control of the territory”(see Map 1).

66 Marching order, operational number 110.1, from April 1st 1999, ex.no. 5D01027, Šainović et al.
67 The units of the 37th mtbr that participated in the march are the following: reconnaissance troops, liaison troops, the 1st company of the 1st Motorized Battalion, military police detachment, self-propelled anti-aircraft gun, tank company, artillery battery of anti-air defence, the 1st Motorized Battalion without the 3rd Company, the 3rd Company of the 1st Motorized Battalion, the howitzer artillery battalion, the artillery rocket battalion of anti-aircraft defence and the S-2M missile battery of anti-aircraft defence.
68 The 37th mtbr conducted this operation in cooperation with the 252nd okbr and the 15th okbr and the MUP units. See the order for engagement of the 37th mtbr from April 2nd 1999, ex.no.P02030, Šainović et al.
54. In the regular daily combat report of the 37th mtbr, dated April 3rd 1999, the Commander of the 37th mtbr, Ljubiša Diković, notified the Priştina Corps that during the day „the reception and deployment of the rest of the mobilized forces has been executed“.

55. During the testimony of Ljubiša Diković in the Šainović et al. case, the Prosecutor in that case pointed out that „there is a gap of available documents from 30th of March until the 19th of April, 1999“ relating to the operations of the 37th mtbr. Therefore, the Prosecutor asked Diković what his brigade was actually doing in this period:

An excerpt from the cross-examination of Ljubiša Diković

Diković: „Between the 30th of March and 19th of April, the focus was on the implementation of the following tasks. The remaining part, the best part of the 37th Motorised Brigade was received and deployed, and the Drenica sector was occupied. The defence sector was occupied.“

Prosecutor Carter (PC): „Can you please tell me when the remainder of your brigade arrived, what was the manpower available?“

Diković: „The numerical strength of my unit was about 4,500 men.”

PC: „You already had six tanks when you first came with the smaller group. Did any further tanks of heavy weaponry enter on the 2nd of April?“

Diković: „Yes, yes, yes. That’s right. The entire brigade arrived.”

PC: „So now you’ve indicated that until the 19th of April you were deploying and occupying that sector [Drenica]. What was happening? You were just going into your post and sitting there or were operations continuing?“

56. In the answer to this question Diković vaguely told the court about how they had to secure the area from “terrorists”, and in the end he said: „we were engaging the terrorists whenever we came across them.“

57. During the research for this Dossier, the HLC sent two requests for information of public importance to the Ministry of Defence, in which it asked for access to the combat reports of the 37th mtbr from April 5th and 6th, which should contain the activities of the brigade on the day of the crime in Rezallë/Rezala.

70 Testimony of Ljubiša Diković in the Šainović et al. case on December 11th 2007, p.20001-20003.
58. The Ministry of Defence has refused to provide the combat reports of the 37th mbr from April 5th and 6th, citing confidentiality of data and pointing out that provision of the requested data „would inflict damage to the operational and functional capability of the Army, as well as to the interests of the defence of the Republic of Serbia, which outweigh the interests of free access to information of public importance.” In its reply, the Ministry did not, however, present arguments which support the claim that examination of the requested documents would create the abovementioned consequences, although according to the Law on Free Access to Information of Public Importance, the Ministry is obliged to provide supporting arguments when rejecting a request. The HLC has filed two appeals to the Commissioner for Information of Public Importance, and at the time of publication of this report has yet to receive the decision of the Commissioner.

1.3.2. Action conducted by the 37th mbr and the MUP in Drenica on April 5th 1999

59. On April 4th 1999, the Commander of the 37th mbr Ljubiša Diković issued an Order to destroy SHTF and take combat control of the territory, which engaged this brigade in a wider operation in the area including the municipalities of Skënderaj/Srbica, Glogoc/Glogovac, Vushtrri/Vučitrn and Mitrovicë/Mitrovica, starting on April 5th 1999. More precisely, that area stretched from the village of Obrinje and the town of Glogoc/Glogovac in the south to Vushtrri/Vučitrn and Mitrovicë/Kosovska Mitrovica in the north. The village of Rezallë/Rezala is situated (looking from south to north) on the rim of the left border of the territory where the mentioned operation was conducted. The action was to be launched at 9 a.m. on April 5th 1999.

60. Infantry, armor and artillery formations of the 37th mbr, and still unidentified police formations (see paras. 68-71), were engaged in this action. Of these, three infantry formations and one artillery formation of the 37th mbr executed tasks in Rezallë/Rezala or in its immediate vicinity (see Map 2).

61. The 2nd Motorized Battalion of the 37th mbr was operational in Rezallë/Rezala, under the command of Dejan Randelović, equipped with tanks and armored vehicles. One company of this battalion, together with members of the police and with the support of artillery of the 37th mbr was to „block, search for, smash and destroy SHTF” in the part of Rezallë/Rezala named Delijaj mahala, in which, according to witnesses, civilians were forcibly taken from houses and brought to Hashim Derguti’s backyard, and in the end were executed (See Map 2).

62. Two other infantry units of the 37th mtbr operated in the immediate vicinity of Rezallë/Rezala on April 5th 1999. The 1st Motorized Battalion of the 37th mtbr led the attack on the village of Krstač located less than 500 m away from Rezallë/Rezala. The 37th Anti-aircraft Battalion was engaged in „blocking, searching for, smashing and destroying SHTF along the k660 – Dević axis“. Ground level 660 is located about 500 m away from Rezallë/Rezala, while the village of Dević is located about 1.5 km away from Rezallë/Rezala (see Map 2).

63. The brigade artillery group of the 37th mtbr was positioned at a location 1.5 km away from Rezallë/Rezala.76

64. The fact that the 37th mtbr undertook military operations in Rezallë/Rezala on the date in question was confirmed by the members of this brigade, Majors Danilo Simonović and Goran Petrović, and Captain 1st Class, Slobodan Radenković, who stated in an interview for “Vojska” magazine that from April 3rd 1999 in the area of Drenica they conducted a number of actions against the „Albanian terrorist forces: first in the line of villages Kruševac - Devička šuma - Novo Poljance – Trstenik – Rezala – Gornje Obrinje“ [italics added by HLC]. In the same article, members of the 37th mtbr clarify that the operations that this unit conducted in Drenica during 1999 also implied the operations of „village cleansing“.

65. Furthermore, in the magazine Vojska, in the article on the operations conducted by the 37th mtbr in Drenica during 1999, it is stated that „the armored battalion under the command of Captain 1st Class Goran Jovanović entered with its steel monsters into enemy strongholds such as Likošan, Likovac, Rezala and Bradići“ [italics added by HLC].

1.3.3. Other police and military units that were engaged in the action on April 5th 1999

66. According to the available documentation of the VJ, on the day in question the 37th mtbr conducted the action in Drenica in coordination with the 252nd okbr, 15th okbr, and 7th pbr, and the MUP units.79

67. According to the orders of the Commander of the 37th mtbr and other military documents, the other three brigades - the 252nd okbr, the 15th okbr and the 7th pbr - did not conduct activities in the area of responsibility of this brigade (37th mtbr), which includes the village of Rezallë/Rezala. More precisely, the 252nd okbr and the 7th okbr conducted activities on the territory which was to the right of the area of responsibility of the 37th mtbr, and the 15th okbr conducted activities on the territory which

68. Descriptions of the uniforms of the police forces that participated in the attack on Rezallë/Rezala, which were provided by witnesses, as well as the findings of the ICTY on the equipment, uniforms and positions of police forces in Kosovo, indicate that these were probably members of the Special Operations Unit (Serb.-JSO) or Special Police Units (Serb.-PJP). According to the findings of the ICTY, the scarves, masks and hats that the witnesses described were characteristic of the JSO;81 however, members of the PJP during 1999 often did not wear their standard uniforms, but could be identified or recognized by their advanced equipment.82 Likewise, the ICTY found that both formations used armored personnel carriers (APCs)83 and that both units conducted operations in the Drenica region during 1999.84 However, it is more likely that the PJP participated in the operation in Rezallë/Rezala, since the minutes of the meeting of the police leadership in Kosovo dated April 4th 1999 confirm that PJP units were engaged in the Drenica region.85 In addition, the commander of the 37th mtbr in his order dated April 4th 1999, describes the present MUP forces in the brigade’s area of responsibility by stating that in strength they range “from a squad to a company”, which represents the organizational structure of the PJP, not the JSO.86

69. In addition, according to the testimony of Ljubiša Diković, the 37th mtbr was joined by 100 - 150 volunteers after April 2nd 1999.87 They were deployed within the 37th mtbr units and, according to the testimony of the commander of this brigade, they had the same status as any other member of the 37th mtbr.88 The Trial Chamber of the ICTY, in the judgment Šainović et al., found that the volunteers in the VJ “would sometimes wear VJ uniforms along with non-standard apparel such as hats and masks.”89

70. According to the orders of the Commander of the 37th mtbr given on April 4th 1999, the MUP forces were deployed throughout the Municipalities of Skënderaj/Srbica and Gligoloc/Glogovac, mostly along the routes Mitrovicë/Kosovska Mitrovica - Skënderaj/Srbica and Klinë/Klina – Skënderaj/Srbica – Gligoloc/Glogovac. In the aforementioned orders, there are 15 villages mentioned where the MUP forces were stationed. The village of Rezallë/Rezala was not among them.90

1.3.4. The bodies of victims in the jurisdiction of the Clearing-up Squad of the 37th mtbr

72. The bodies of victims killed in the mass crime in Rezallë/Rezala, immediately after the commission of the crime and up until April 13th 1999 were under the jurisdiction of the Squad of the 37th mtbr for the clearing-up of the battlefield. Based on the available documents, it is not possible to reconstruct how this squad dealt with the bodies after this date, or whether the command of the 37th mtbr informed the military investigative authorities about the crimes.

73. The Commander of the 37th mtbr, Ljubiša Diković, issued an order for ‘clearing-up the battlefield’ on April 5th 1999 - the day of the crime in Rezallë/Rezala, or more precisely „for finding and collecting human... corpses [and] their burial“. In order to execute this task, and in accordance with the order issued by the Priština Corps dated March 31st, 1999 (see paras. 6-9), a squad was formed which, among other things, had the following responsibilities: „to collect data on where bodies of the SHTF were found, report on these locations to the Chief of MUP Srbica [Skënderaj]; upon receiving such reports, the latter, via the Chief of MUP Kosovska Mitrovica [Mitrovicë], will regulate the engagement of personnel for collection, burial, clearing up operations and the prescribed records on persons buried.“ Captain 1st Class Rade Krsmanović was appointed Commander of this Squad, and Major Hasan Čorbić was appointed his Deputy.\textsuperscript{92}

74. In the same order, the Squad for clearing-up was ordered to report to the Command of the Brigade „daily on implementation of this order during the daily briefing, and at other times as needed“.\textsuperscript{93} Subsequent orders issued by the Commander of the 37th mtbr confirm that Brigade Commander Ljubiša Diković was familiar with the clearing-up performed in his area of responsibility.\textsuperscript{94}

75. The order also contains one very surprising assumption of the Commander of the 37th mtbr - that all of the bodies that the Squad comes across will be the bodies of the “SHTF” although the term ‘clearing-up of the battlefield’ implies finding and burying the bodies of civilians as well as combatants.\textsuperscript{95} This order is especially revealing, if one takes into consideration available orders of other VJ brigades on clearing up the battlefield, for example of the 125th mtbr. According to this order, the command of the 125th mtbr does not anticipate what bodies will be found, but issues a clear task to members of the squad that they remove all dead bodies that they come across, in accordance with the instructions given.96

76. On April 13th, 1999, the Commander of the Clearing-up Squad of the 37th mtbr, Rade Krsmanović, and his Deputy Hasan Ćorbić, notified the Secretariat for Internal Affairs (SUP) in Mitrovicë/Kosovska Mitrovica „that there are 30-40 bodies in Rezala [Rezallë] village near the village cemetery that had been covered by dirt and rubble by members of the Yugoslav Army” [italics added by HLC].97

77. Upon arrival at the scene of the crime on April 13th, 1999, the investigative judge of the District Court in Mitrovicë/Kosovska Mitrovica, Bogoljub Paunović, with the participation of officials from the SUP Mitrovicë/Kosovska Mitrovica, established that near the village cemetery in Rezallë/Rezala there was a layer of soil, and that by removing the first layer of the soil there was evidence of the presence of human bodies.98

78. The investigative judge refused to issue an order for exhumation, but did, however, issue an order to add another layer of soil, about 80cm thick, to the existing layer of soil, since this was a gully [a streambed – author’s note], „insisting to the VJ officers present, Captain Krsmanović and Major Ćorbić, that investigations be undertaken by the military investigative authorities” [italics added
by the HLC].99

79. In the absence of further clarification of the refusal of the investigative judge to issue an order for exhumation, it is important to note that according to the Law on the Jurisdiction of Courts, the military investigation authorities conducted investigations of crimes committed by military personnel.100

80. What the Clearing-up Squad of the 37th mtbr did with the bodies later on is unknown. The facts as to whether this squad, or the Command of the 37th mtbr, informed the military investigative authorities also remain unknown,101 and if so, whether they took over the investigation regarding the bodies found in the mass grave in Rezallë/Rezala.

81. During the trial in the Šainović et al. case, the ICTY Prosecution attempted to determine the further actions undertaken with regard to the bodies found in Rezallë/Rezala by examining witness 6D-2, but without results.102 about committed criminal offences. See Articles 60 and 61 of the Law on Military Courts (Official Gazette of the FRY no. 11, March 3rd 1995); Statement of Aleksandar Vasiljević, at the time the deputy head of the Department for

82. On April 14th, 1999, the Priština Corps Command issued a request to the MUP for the clearing-up of the area of the villages of „Gornje Obrinje, Rezala and Kraljica“ [italics added by the HLC]. Although this request only mentions the corpses of animals, it is worthy of attention because it confirms the formal supremacy of the VJ over the MUP in the procedure of clearing-up, and it coincides with the removal of bodies from Rezallë/Rezala, as well as with the inspection of the scene undertaken by the investigative judge.\(^\text{103}\)

83. The documents of the VJ indicate that the 37th mtbr was engaged in some sort of a procedure of checking and establishing the circumstances relating to the bodies in Rezallë/Rezala. Specifically, the report of the Commission for the collection of materials on executed clear-ups of the battlefields on the territory of Kosovo and Metohija during 1998/1999 states that the VJ found 30 bodies in Rezallë/Rezala, but that they were neither „forensically processed“ nor identified. The report notes that for these „human bodies, which had been found, it was determined with certainty that the deaths of these persons were not the result of the activity of the members of the VJ“, without clarifying how this was „determined with certainty“ or to whom the bodies were then handed over.\(^\text{104}\) The report leads to the conclusion that this checking was most likely performed by the Security Department of the 37th mtbr without engaging the military investigative authorities, which is contrary to the rules of the VJ.\(^\text{105}\)

84. In contrast to the data which suggest that the 37th mtbr had formal responsibility for collecting bodies in that area, as well as a direct insight into the existence of mass graves in Rezallë/Rezala, the Commander of this brigade, Ljubiša Diković, in his testimony before the ICTY in the Šainović et al. case, claimed that he had never encountered any mass graves in that area:

Prosecutor Carter – question to witness Diković: So, even though your unit was directly involved in that area, no one from the VJ called upon you to answer for any of those operations or to provide any information when mass graves were found?

Witness Diković – answer: Well, I don't know which mass graves you actually mean. At the time that I was there I did not come across any mass graves, no mass graves at all. Let me repeat that. I did not come across any mass graves in that area.\(^\text{106}\)

the village of Izbicë/Izbica at the end of March 1999, it is inconceivable that Diković is denying any knowledge of any mass graves in that region, when it is known that the Clearing-up Squad of his brigade had information about the mass grave in Rezallë/Rezala, which is located 12km away from Izbicë/Izbica.

2. The killing of 27 Albanian civilians in Çikatovë e Vjetër/Staro Čikatovo

86. Çikatovë e Vjetër/Staro Čikatovo village is located in the Municipality of Gllogoc/Glogovac, some 5 km north-east from the town of Gllogoc/Glogovac. On the basis of the evidence obtained, the HLC established that on April 17th, 1999, members of the Serbian forces killed 27 Kosovo Albanian civilians there. The citizens of the village who survived the crime buried the bodies in the places where they found them, but in early June the bodies were taken from the village in military trucks by members of the MUP. 20 bodies of victims of this crime have been exhumed from the Rudnica mass grave, while seven bodies that the survivors buried are located in Çikatovë e Vjetër/Staro Čikatovo.

87. The official military documents and testimonies of military officers analyzed in this Dossier indicate that the village of Çikatovë e Vjetër/Staro Čikatovo was in the area of responsibility of the 37th mtbr at the time of the commission of the crime, and that the action during which crimes against the citizens of Çikatovë e Vjetër/Staro Čikatovo were committed was launched by joint forces of the units of the 37th mtbr, the 15th okbr and the members of the 86th detachment of the PJP, on April 17th, 1999. Military documents and testimonies of police officials indicate that during the time period in question the clearing-up of the battlefield in the Municipality of Gllogoc/Glogovac was under the jurisdiction of the 37th mtbr.

2.2. Description of events based on witness statements

88. In the early morning hours of April 17th 1999, the Serbian forces surrounded the village of Çikatovë e Vjetër/Staro Čikatovo. After random shelling of the villagers’ houses, soldiers and police officers entered the village at around 6 a.m. In groups of three to five, they entered houses, beat, humiliated and intimidated citizens, confiscated their money, jewelry and any even remotely valuable personal belongings. Several persons were seriously injured and several were killed in their houses, in front of their family members and neighbors. The survivors were expelled from their houses and gathered in several places in the village, all the while being beaten and threatened with weapons. Most of them, mainly from the Morina family, gathered in their Morina mahala [Morina neighborhood].

89. After repeated searching and beating, the police officers and soldiers separated the men from the women and children. The houses and all other facilities in the village were immediately burned down. Women and children, threatened with weapons, were ordered to form a column and leave the village, in the direction of Gllogoc/Glogovac. Some of the men were immediately killed, mostly by shots from automatic weapon at close range. Others were split into three groups and led to the backyards of their cousins Yllber Morina, Ali Morina and Sejdi Morina, and shot by rifle from close range. In these events, a total of 27 Kosovo Albanian civilians were killed.\textsuperscript{107}

90. In the evening, a few villagers who survived the crime buried the bodies in the places where they found them, in four graves. These survivors had been hiding in the forest near the village until the Serbian forces retreated from Kosovo. According to their testimony, in early June the police came to the village and started digging up the graves. The bodies were loaded into a military truck, and the corpses of cows were laid in the dug up graves.\textsuperscript{108}

91. When the citizens returned to the village after the retreat of Serbian forces from Kosovo, only seven bodies of the victims killed on April 17\textsuperscript{th} 1999 were found in the places where the survivors had buried them: Merrushe (Hys) Shala (1970), Florin (Tahir) Morina (1962), Azem (Bajram) Morina (1930), Zenel (Sylë) Morina (1930), Bajram (Vesel) Makolli (1925), Kadri (Tahir) Karagja (1922) and Tahir (Hetem) Morina (1937).\textsuperscript{109}

2.3. Military documents and testimonies of VJ officers

93. The two-day operation of the clearing-up of the battlefield which encompasses the village of Čikatovë e Vjetër/Staro Čikatovo, which was launched on April 16th, 1999 on the orders of the Joint Command for Kosovo and Metohija, was carried out by units of the 37th mibr and 15th okbr, and the 86th detachment of the PJP.

94. The evidence gathered from the military and police sources also point to the responsibility of the 37th mibr for the removal of the bodies on the territory of Gllogoc/Glogovac.

2.3.1. Operations for establishing combat control of the territory and the ‘clearing-up of the battlefield’

95. The Command of the 37th mibr issued a Defence Order, Operation number 125-2", signed by the Commander of the 37th mibr, Ljubiša Diković. According to the order, the task of the 37th mibr was to “set up defence in the Kukavica (tt. 591 exclusive) - Gradina (tt.1055 inclusive) – Goleš pass (exclusive) - Suvo Brdo (tt.734 inclusive) area” for the purpose of defence against possible attacks launched by NATO forces and the KLA, starting from April 16th, 1999". The village of Čikatovë e Vjetër/Staro Čikatovo is located almost in the center of this area (see Map 3).

96. This Order tasks certain units with establishing control over certain territories in this brigade’s area of responsibility. Hence, the Third Motorized Battalion of the 37th mibr, along with three other units of the 37th mibr (armored battalion, engineers battalion, and a mixed antitank-artillery division) and the 15th okbr’s Second Battalion was ordered to take combat control over an area which includes the village of Čikatovë e Vjetër/Staro Čikatovo. Namely, “the line from Globare to the village of Bardići”, was set as the right border of the area that would be placed under the control of this unit. A look at the map shows that the line goes through Čikatovë e Vjetër/Staro Čikatovo (see Map 4).

97. On April 15th, 1999, the 37th mibr and 15th okbr received an order coming from the Joint Command for Kosovo and Metohija to engage as of April 16th, 1999, in a two-day joint operation with MUP units “to break and destroy SHTF” at Mount Čičavica and in the sector of the villages of Vasilevë/Vasiljevo and Dobroševac/Dobroševec.

98. Regular combat report of the 37th mibr dated April 16th, 1999 shows that the 37th mibr had been regulating the movements in the entire area of responsibility of the Brigade as of that day.

99. It is also stated that the Commander of the 37th mtbr, Ljubiša Diković, attended a meeting held that day, which referred to the operation ordered by the Joint Command to the 37th mtbr and 15th okbr, and that together with the Chief of Staff of the 37th mtbr he carried out a reconnaissance of the terrain. The reconnaissance of the terrain was also attended by the Commanders of the First and Second Armored Battalion of the 15th okbr.

100. The same report offers an overview of the daily activities undertaken by the 37th mtbr related to the execution of orders issued by the Joint Command to “crush and destroy SHTF”, and it reports that the operation will be continued the following day, that is, April 17th, 1999.

101. The ICTY court records do not contain the combat report of the 37th mtbr dated April 17th, 1999. In December 2014, the HLC requested this document from the Ministry of Defence, but has not received it by the time of the publishing of this Dossier.

102. The entry made by the Commander of the 15th okbr, Mladen Ćirković, in the war diary of this brigade for April 16th and 17th, 1999, confirms the participation of units of the 15th okbr in the ‘clearing-up of the territory’ operations at Čičavica.

103. According to the MUP’s document dated April 17th, 1999, the 3rd Company of the 86th Detachment of the PJP was engaged in Çikatovë e Vjetër/Staro Čikatovo on April 17th, 1999.

104. The 4th Company of the 86th Detachment of the PJP was deployed that same day in the neighboring village of Pokle. The 1st and the 2nd Companies were deployed in the direction of Llapushnik/Lapušnik – Arllat/Orlate – Đurđica/Durdica and Glogovac-Glogoc – Poluzhë/Poluža, at an approximate distance of 2 to 10 km from Çikatovë e Vjetër/Staro Čikatovo, while the 5th Company was positioned in the Feronikl factory in Glogoc/Glogovac.

2.3.2. Bodies under the jurisdiction of the Clearing-up Squad of the 37th mtbr

105. Unlike in the case of the village of Rezallë/Rezala (para. 72-85), there are no public military or police documents pointing to the discovery of or actions involving the bodies of the persons who were killed in Çikatovë e Vjetër/Staro Čikatovo (on April 17th) by members of the VJ or the MUP or the civilian government authorities. Still, military documents and the testimony of a police official do point to the fact that the clearing-up of the battlefield during the time in question in the Municipality of Glogoc/Glogovac was under the jurisdiction of the 37th mbr.

106. According to the order issued by the PrC, each of the VJ brigades was responsible for the clearing-up in its area of responsibility.119

107. As mentioned earlier (para. 73), the Clearing-up Squad of the 37th mbr was established on April 5th, 1999 (12 days prior to the crime committed in Çikatovë e Vjetër/Staro Čikatovo), with the task to collect information on the killed and to report thereon to the responsible investigation authorities.120

108. In early June, when the bodies were, according to the statements given by the witnesses, exhumed and taken away from the village, Çikatovë e Vjetër/Staro Čikatovo was in the area of responsibility of the 37th mbr.121

109. The former Chief of the Department of the Interior in Glogoc/Glogovac, Petar Damjanac, testified before the ICTY that the VJ was the one responsible in this municipality for the clearing-up, and that he maintained contact for this purpose with the Commander of the Clear-up Squad of the 37th mbr, Rade Kršmanović, and his Deputy Hasan Ćorbić.122 He also pointed out in his testimony that the MUP Department in Glogoc/Glogovac did not carry out the clearing-up because the municipal government in Glogoc/Glogovac was not operational during the NATO intervention in 1999 in Kosovo, and that they did not have a crisis committee, civil protection or a single truck.123

110. The allegation that the civilian government in Glogoc/Glogovac was not operational at the time period in question was also confirmed by the report of the 37th mbr Command on the situation in Glogoc/Glogovac dated May 3rd, 1999.124

3. Abuse and enforced disappearance of civilians in Zabel i Ulet/Donji Zabelj

111. Zabel i Ulet/Donji Zabelj is located in the Municipality of Glogoc/Glogovac some 5 km south of the town of Glogoc/Glogovac. On the basis of the gathered evidence, the HLC established that on May 12th, 1999, after abusing and forcing four civilians, Kosovo Albanians from the village, to work, Serbian forces put them inside a truck and transported them in an unknown direction. After this event, every trace of them was lost, until their bodies were found in the mass grave in Rudnica. The available documents of the VJ show that control over Zabel i Ulet/Donji Zabelj and its surroundings was under the jurisdiction of the 37th mtbr, while the 15th okbr carried out operations near this village.

3.1. Description of events based on witness statements

112. Around 10 a.m. on May 12th, 1999, six or seven individuals wearing uniforms entered the village of Zabel i Ulët/Donji Zabelj. Witnesses identified these persons as “paramilitaries”. They were looking for volunteers in the village for work. Since no one volunteered, they took 14 men out of their houses and beat them. Then they took them to Nazif Curri’s backyard, where they continued hitting them with wooden sticks and rifle butts, and humiliated them and made them dig ditches.125

113. A “Dajc” military truck126 with a green covering stopped on the street at around 4 p.m. Several soldiers came out of the truck and, after arguing with the “paramilitaries”, forcibly took four villagers from the group who were digging out the ditches - Afrim (Selim) Ahmeti (1961), Valbon (Qazim) Ahmeti (1967), Nuhi (Sabit) Buçinca (1964) and Shaban (Halit) Buçinca (1955) – and put them inside the truck and transported them in the direction of Gllogoc/Glogovac. This was the last time they were seen alive.127

114. The paramilitaries then ordered the remaining 10 men to continue digging. At around 8 p.m. the commander of the paramilitaries known by the nickname of “Babo” told the detained men that the four civilians who had been taken away had tried to escape and that the “military police took them in order to identify them”.128

115. They released the remaining ten villagers before dusk. The villagers waited until 11 p.m. that evening for Afrim (Selim) Ahmeti, Valbon (Qazim) Ahmeti, Nuhi (Sabit) Buçinca and Shaban (Halit) Buçinca to return. Since they did not show up, the villagers of Zabel i Ulët/Donji Zabelj ran away from the village. When they returned on June 12th, 1999, they found their houses burnt down.129

3.2. Military documents

116. The village of Zabel i Ulët/Donji Zabelj was in the area of responsibility of the 37th mtbr from the beginning of the NATO intervention until the retreat in mid-June 1999. A number of combat reports, orders and other documents from the communication of this brigade and the Priština Corps during the time in question provide evidence thereof.\textsuperscript{130}

117. Besides executing combat tasks, the 37\textsuperscript{th} mbr also had broad jurisdiction over the civilian population in this area – their registration, control, accommodation, provision of safety, distribution of food, and so forth,\textsuperscript{131} due to the fact (paras. 109-110) that the civilian authorities in the Municipality of Gllogoc/Glogovac were not operational.\textsuperscript{132}

118. The 37\textsuperscript{th} mbr controlled the movement in the area of responsibility as of mid-April 1999.\textsuperscript{133}

119. On May 12\textsuperscript{th}, a part of the 15\textsuperscript{th} okbr participated, together with the 37\textsuperscript{th} mbr, in the operation known as “Gospođa” ("Mrs." - translator’s note) in the sector of Lipovica (the Municipality of Lipjan/Lipljan) at about 3.5 km from the Zabel i Ulët/Donji Zabelj.\textsuperscript{134}

4. Killing of Rrahman Nika in Gllanasellë/Gladno Selo

120. Gllanasellë/Gladno Selo is located in the Municipality of Gllogoc/Glogovac at about 7 km north-east of the town of Gllogoc/Glogovac. Based on the evidence gathered, the HLC established that on May 27\textsuperscript{th}, 1999, the Serbian forces killed a civilian from the village and wounded another civilian. The body of Rrahman Nika, the victim, was taken after the killing by members of the VJ, and was discovered only in 2014 in the mass grave in Rudnica. The presence of the 37\textsuperscript{th} mbr on the day in question in the village has been without a doubt established on the basis of the military documents acquired by the HLC. The responsibility of the 37\textsuperscript{th} mbr included responsibility for the clear-up, that is, for the removal of victims’ bodies from the territory of Gllanasellë/Gladno Selo.

\textsuperscript{130} For instance, see the Regular combat report of the 37\textsuperscript{th} mbr dated May 7\textsuperscript{th}, 1999, ex.no. 5D01060, Šainović et al; Combat Order of the 37\textsuperscript{th} mbr dated May 5\textsuperscript{th}, 1999, ex.no. 5D01038, Šainović et al; Regular combat report of the 37\textsuperscript{th} mbr dated May 1\textsuperscript{st}, 1999, ex.no. 5D01058, Šainović et al; Regular combat report of the 37\textsuperscript{th} mbr dated May 13\textsuperscript{th}, 1999, ex.no. 5D01085, Šainović et al; and Regular combat report of the 37\textsuperscript{th} mbr dated May 17\textsuperscript{th}, 1999, ex.no. 5D01084, Šainović et al.

4.1. Description of events based on witness statements

121. Owing to the frequent attacks by the Serbian forces, Rrahman Nika was hiding in the “Ljugu i Madhe” forest in the village of Dobroshec/Dobroševac (the Municipality of Gllogoc/Glogovac) together with his family, as of the beginning of the war. In the evening of May 26th, 1999, Rrahman, together with his cousins, went to the village of Gllanasellë/Gladno Selo to get some food. They headed back from the village of Gllanasellë/Gladno Selo on May 27th around 1 a.m. When they reached the settlement of Berisha in Gllanasellë/Gladno Selo, the Serbian forces abruptly started shooting in their direction. Rrahman was shot and fell to the ground, and remained lying on the road, while the cousins managed to escape. Some members of the KLA told Rrahman’s wife that they saw a number of Serbian soldiers taking his body that same day, dragging it along the ground in an unknown direction.135

4.2. Military documents and testimonies of MUP officials

122. A large number of members of the 3rd Motorized Battalion of the 37th mtbr were in Gllanasellë/Gladno Selo on May 26th, 1999.

123. The document of the Command of the VJ Third Army dated May 28th, 1999, entitled “Observations made during the inspection of the 37th mtbr”, stated that the 3rd Motorized Battalion of the 37th mtbr was positioned in the area encompassing Gllanasellë/Gladno Selo, with some 800 of its members. “The following situation was observed during the inspection of the 3rd Motorized Battalion of the 37th Motorized Brigade: the Battalion took control of the following defence sector: Gladno selo [Gllanasellë] – t.t./trig point/ 756 (Lipoglav) – Gornji Grabovac (the width of the defence sector is approximately 12 km)” [italics added by HLC].136 This document further states that the battalion had 806 soldiers, and that “approximately 85% troops are present.”137

124. Apart from the fact that on the day when Rrahman Nika was killed, the forces of the 37th mtbr were deployed in the village and accordingly there is a reasonable presumption that it was the members of this unit who removed Rrahman Nika’s body (or at least had knowledge about who had done this), there is another important piece of evidence pointing to the fact that the 37th mtbr was responsible for the removal of bodies on the territory of Gllogoc/Glogovac. Namely, we would hereby like to remind the reader of the fact (see para. 109) that the former Head of the Department of the Interior in Gllogoc/Glogovac testified that the VJ was responsible for the clearing-up in this municipality, and that for this purpose he had contact with the clear-up squad of the 37th mtbr.138 He also stressed that the Gllogoc/Glogovac MUP Department did not carry out the clearing-up because the municipal government in Gllogoc/Glogovac was not operational during the NATO intervention in Kosovo in

A number of documents produced by the 37th mtbr and PrC also confirm the situation in Gllogoc/Glogovac.¹⁴⁰

VIII. VJ and MUP units which participated in operations in which crimes were committed 125. Based on the accessible evidence, the HLC has established with certainty the participation of three units in the VJ and MUP operations, during which the civilians whose bodies were found in Rudnica had been killed. The basic information on these units is given in the text below.

1. 37th Motorized Brigade of the VJ

126. The home barracks of the 37th mtbr was located in Raška, hence it was also known by the name of the “Raška Brigade.”¹⁴¹ It was part of the Užice Corps of the Second Army of the VJ and it was resubordinated to the Priština Corps of the Third Army on March 7th, 1999, by the order of the VJ General Staff.¹⁴²

127. Until the beginning of the NATO intervention on March 24th, 1999, the 37th mtbr had carried out “intensive combat training focused on increasing the combat readiness level” in Kosovo.¹⁴³ The 37th mtbr had already conducted anti-terrorist operations before the war.¹⁴⁴

128. The entire 37th mtbr, that is some 4,500 of its members, arrived in Drenica in early April 1999,¹⁴⁵ and stayed there until it retreated from Kosovo completely on June 16th, 1999, to its barracks in Raška.¹⁴⁶

129. After the war in Kosovo, 10 members of the 37th mtbr received the Medal of Honor for demonstrated courage, 175 were awarded the Defence and Security Medal of Merit, and 132 members were promoted in an extra ordinary promotion.¹⁴⁷

130. The medals and the “fame” that the 37th mtbr achieved after the war in Kosovo is linked to the... allegations that Drenica was the "stronghold of the KLA" and the "terrorist nest". However, the fact is that during the deployment of the 37th mtbr in Drenica, some 180 "terrorists", that is members of the KLA, were killed in this area, whereas 1,400 civilians were killed.

131. Ljubiša Diković, the then Colonel, was the Commander of the 37th mtbr during 1999.

132. The President of the Republic of Serbia appointed him Chief of the General Staff of Serbia in December 12th, 2011 and he has been holding this position ever since. At present, Ljubiša Diković holds the rank of General.

133. In 2012, the HLC published the Ljubiša Diković Dossier, in which it described seven crimes in which members of the brigade mentioned herein had participated and which resulted in the deaths of more than 450 civilians.

i. Battalion Commanders of the 37th mtbr

134. Captain 1st Class Dragan Mitrović held the position of the Commander of the 1st Battalion of the 37th mtbr, and after his death he was replaced by his Deputy, Captain Aleksandar Marković. Captain Dejan Randelović was the Commander of the 2nd Battalion of the 37th mtbr, while 1st Lieutenant Zoran Gavrilović was the Commander of the 3rd Battalion of the 37th mtbr, and after his death he was replaced by Major Draženko Mirić. The Commander of the Armored Battalion of the 37th mtbr was Captain 1st Class Goran Jovanović. Lieutenant Colonel Vladimir Puda held the position of the Commander of the Howitzer Battalion of the 37th mtbr. Lieutenant Colonel Stošić was the Commander of the Logistics Battalion of the 37th mtbr, while the Commander of the Artillery Battalion of the 37th mtbr was Major Milanović.

2. 15th Armored Brigade of the VJ

135. The 15th okbr was a unit subordinated to the VJ Priština Corps.

136. This Brigade's area of responsibility encompassed the north of Kosovo, particularly the Municipalities of Prishtinë/Priština, Vushtrri/Vučitrn and Fushë Kosovë/Kosovo Polje, as well as

Srbica KM /Command Post/
1000 hours 4 April 1999

37th mtbr COMMANDER'S ORDER to destroy ŠTS /Šiptar/ Albanian/ terrorist forces/ and take combat control of the territory.

SECTION: 1:50,000 Kosovska Mitrovica – 1, 2, 3 and 4.

1. INFORMATION ON THE ENEMY:

NATO forces continued their aggression against our country with air strikes and cruise missile attacks from a distance. They have absolute supremacy in airspace and apart from direct fire support from ŠTS, they are engaged in intensive reconnaissance from airspace. They are using all types of aerial bombs, cluster bombs and ammunition with enriched uranium.

ŠTS were smashed in Drenica, but not completely destroyed. Small groups of terrorists are still present in parts of populated places and wooded parts of the zone, and so far they have been observed in the sectors of Ošljane, Ljubovac, Gornje Prekaze, Mikušnica, Devičke Šume, Gradica, Likovac, Lauša, Gornje Obrinje, Donje Obrinje, Gradica /as printed/, Gladno Selo, Trstenik and Glogovac. Operating in small groups, they are inflicting losses on MUP /Ministry of the Interior/ and VJ /Yugoslav Army/ units from an ambush and with sniper fire, disrupting regular supplies, introduction of forces and deployment. They are mainly armed with infantry weapons, light PO /anti-tank/ assets and mortars. Expect more intensive action along all axes with the start of the third phase of aggression against our country.

2. UNIT TASK:
The 37th mtrb has the following task: in coordinated action with 252nd okbr /Armoured Brigade/, 15th okbr and Serbian MUP forces, engage in energetic operations to smash and destroy ŠTS in the zone as quickly as possible, secure the main roads and ensure combat control of the territory.

56. OVERVIEW OF RECORDED CRIMINAL OFFENCES AND MEASURES TAKEN IN THE TERRITORY OF KOSOVO AND METOHIJA FROM 1ST JULY 1998 TO 20TH JUNE 1999

Causing public danger which is an offence under Article 187 of KZ RS took place on 20th April 1999. The perpetrator was Vulović Bojan (a member of the reserve force of the Yugoslav Army), who came from the village of Ostrače in Leposavić municipality. A criminal complaint of 15th April 1999 the number of which was KU 11/99 was filed and submitted to the Office of military prosecutor in Priština.

10. Lipiljan, the villages of Gornje /Slovinje/ and Donje Slovinje, 15th April 1999

On 15th April 1999, intelligence activities of the police resulted in obtaining information according to which there were mass graves in the villages of Gornje /Slovinje/ and Donje Slovinje in Lipiljan municipality. Allegedly, around 35 bodies were buried in the mass graves and the buried people had most likely died in fighting between KLA and security forces which had taken place in that area. The existence of the graves was confirmed after the information had been checked and authorities of the Yugoslav Army were informed accordingly. They disinterred 16 bodies, identified them, and turned them over to their relatives for funeral.

Even though searches had been conducted, the grave in Gornje Slovinje was never found. We have no knowledge of any other actions that the Yugoslav Army might have undertaken. The case file and pertinent documents were filed with the Office of the District Public Prosecutor in Priština.

11. Dakovica, 16th April 1999, rape under Article 103 of KZ RS

Several members of the Yugoslav Army raped Nezira Merlinde of the village of Bardonjić and Beriša Hasime of the village of Koserić. The incident occurred in the village of Crmljane on 16th April 1999 at around 1000 hours. They took a sum of 3,130 DM in an unlawful way from the following people: Šefki Krasnići, Sejdi Krasnići, and Dulfedana Krasnići, all of whom came from the village of Vranovac, from Zjo Hisenaj, Škurt Hiseni, and Miruše Hisenaj, all of whom came from the village of Bradonjić, from Meme Krasnići from the village of Čełopek, Arif Kereč from the village of Kraljane, and from Kimeta Berišu of Čełopek.

These civilians requested that members of the Ministry of the Interior should give them protection. The security authorities of the Army were notified of the incidents, as was the Staff of the Ministry of the Interior.

12. Rezalo, Srbica, 18th April 1999

According to information two members of the Yugoslav Army, captain Krsmanović and major Čorbić, supplied to the Secretariat of the Interior in Kosovska Mitrovica on 13th April 1999, several dozen bodies, between 30 and 40 of them, were lying nearby the village cemetery in the village of Rezalo. The bodies had been covered up by earth and rubble by members of the Yugoslav Army. Investigating Magistrate Paunović Bogoljub of the District Court in Kosovska Mitrovica and authorised officers with the Secretariat of the Interior went to the crime scene on the same day. An investigation of the scene proved that nearby the village cemetery there was a deposit of earth, and after the first layer had been removed, human bodies were discovered. The aforementioned Investigating Magistrate refused to issue exhumation orders since damage might have been caused to the bodies.

Investigating Magistrate Miletić Blagoje of the District in Court in Kosovska Mitrovica and authorised officers went to the scene of the crime on 18th April 1999. After having examined the scene of the crime, they established that there were a large number of human bodies lying underneath the deposit of earth. The Investigating Magistrate refused to issue orders for exhumation of the bodies; instead, he issued orders that since the existing deposit was located at a water-worn gully, one more layer of approximately 80 cm of earth be deposited over it. At the same time, he insisted with attending officers with the Yugoslav Army, namely with captain Krstanović and major Čorbić, that investigative activities should be carried out by investigative authorities of the Army.

Files containing findings of forensic investigation were compiled.

13. Lipljan, the villages of Malo Ribare and Mali Alaš, 18th/19th April 1999

Activities of the police had led to information that was obtained on 18th and 19th April 1999. According to the information, there were mass graves located in the villages of Malo Ribare and Mali Alaš in Lipljan municipality and approximately 45 bodies were buried in those graves. They belonged to people who had died during operations of VJ units.

After the information had been checked and confirmed, the competent authorities of the Yugoslav Army were informed of the incident. They disinterred and identified 25 bodies in Malo Ribare and 16 bodies in Mali Alaš.

The bodies were handed over to their relatives so that they could be given a burial.

We have no information about any other measures that VJ might have undertaken in this case.

On 22nd April 1999, at around 2200 hours, Kasalović Dragan of the village of Zupče in Zubin Potok municipality, who served as a sergeant in the Yugoslav Army, fired shots from a 7.62-mm calibre automatic rifle and killed Biševac Mirko of Zubin Potok. Biševac was the owner of café “Hram” /Temple/ in which the murder occurred. At the same time, Kasalović inflicted bodily harm on Jakšić Dragoljub, Vukićević Zoran, Durić Slaviša, Radojković Boban, Nešović Gordana, and Radomirović Snežana.

A criminal complaint KU 24/00 was filed against Kasalović Dragan because there were reasonable grounds to suspect that he had committed the offence of murder under Article 47, paragraph 2, item 3 of KZ RS. The criminal complaint was submitted to the Office of the District Public Prosecutor in Kosovska Mitrovica. Kasalović Dragan turned himself in to military authorities in Niš and he was remanded in custody there. The investigative authorities of the Army instituted criminal proceedings.

15. Obilić, 23rd April 1999, attempted robbery under Article 168 of KZ RS and offence under Article 23 of ZOJRM /Law on Public Law and Order/

Milenković Momir, who was a member of the reserve force of the Yugoslav Army, and three individuals of Albanian ethnic affiliation took 2,020.0 dinars and 200 DM from Gaši Muharem while threatening him with a knife.

The perpetrators were placed in detention.

A criminal complaint was filed and laid in the competent Prosecutor Office.

16. Peć, 26th April 1999, causing public danger under Article 187 of KZ RS

On 26th April 1999, several members of the Yugoslav Army discharged an automatic rifle in the direction of a building in which families Grujić, Martinović, Jekinić, etc. lived, and which was located in Rasadnik settlement. One projectile entered the bedroom of the Jekinić family. The perpetrator was identified as Novović Jovica, who was a soldier.

The Military Police were notified of the incident.

An official note PU 510/99 and a questionnaire that contained information related to the incident PU 2895/99 were referred to the Yugoslav Army. A report was submitted to the Ministry of the Interior.

SECTION 1:50,000 Kosovska Mitrovica – 1, 2, 3 and 4

1.- THE AGGRESSOR

After initiating the aggression on the FRY /Federal Republic of Yugoslavia/ on 24 March 1999, the forces of the aggressor, the US-led NATO alliance, struck all vital, military and civilian installations with aircraft and cruise missiles. Despite the losses sustained so far (32 aircraft, some 50 cruise missiles and 88 men), the aggression continues, predominantly from the air.

The aggressor moved fresh forces based in Greece and Italy on time and then prepared and grouped them as follows:

In the Republic of Macedonia: parts of the German, British, French, American and Dutch forces, and 12 combat heli /helicopters/, 12 multi-role and 22 TrHe /transport helicopters/, and parts of the TS /Siptar /Albanian/ Terrorist Forces/ (3,000-4,000 men).

Parts of units numbering some 5,000-6,000 men and some 10,000 TS from KM /Kosovo and Metohija/ trained by NATO instructors for DTA /sabotage and terrorist operations/ were brought together in Albania.

Based on the current deployment and grouping of forces, an attack by the main forces can be expected from the RM /Republic of Macedonia/ on the following axes:
Kumanovo-Bujanovac, Skopje-Deneral Janković, Tetovo-Globečica and Gostivar-Restelica, and with the auxiliary forces from the RA /Republic of Albania/ on the axes: Kukës-Prizren, Krmë-Dakovica and Tropoje-Deçane.

The goal of the enemy’s attack is to use strong aerial forces with the support of KR /cruise missiles/, aircraft and helicopters for POB /anti-armour combat/, NH /nuclear and chemical weapons/, special airborne assault forces, coordinate with the remains of the TS in KM, and simultaneously carry out a land strike using forces from the RM and RA, scatter our defence forces in KM, drive them out of Kosovo and Metohija and achieve the objective of declaring it /Kosovo/ a protectorate.

The enemy will probably achieve its objective in two phases.

First phase: Under strong cover by aircraft and KR, using aircraft and helicopters for POB, NH /nuclear and chemical/ weapons, and concentrated armoured and PO /anti-armour/ forces, the first b/e combat echelon/, will spearhead the defence on the main attack axes and then employ THD tactical helicopter landings/ in the sector of Končuljanska Klisura /gorge/, Mučibaba, Doganović village, Štrpce village and the Dulje pass, and coordinating with the remnants of the local ŠTS, continue an energetic thrust and as quickly as possible take the dominant features along the axis:
Bujanovac-Gnjilane-Uroševac-Mt. Nerotimka-Mt. Žar-Mt. Milanovac-Mt. Grebnik-
Mt. Suva.
Time to complete the first phase: four to six days.

Second phase: Introducing the second b/e along with an operational assault in the sector of Malo Kosovo and the sector of Kosovo Polje-Slatina, and continuing with a brisk operation focusing on the axis Gnjilane-Gračanica-Priština and Uroševac-Priština, as quickly as possible, take the axis Bujanovac-Kosovska Kamenica-Novo Brdo-Batlava-Merdare-Prepolac-Zvečane-Mt. Prokletija and the Čahor pass.

Time to complete the second phase: five to seven days.

Support: Expect the enemy to have the following support for achieving his objective:

Air support:

- 100 LBA fighters-bombers/ flying some 350 sorties;
- some 150 KR and 30 A-10 aircraft for anti-armour combat;
- three groups of 12 combat helicopters;
- some 20 multi-role helicopters;
- some 50 transport He.

NH support:

- mass use of chemical weapons;
- projectile with depleted uranium.

Regardless of the strong air support, support from aircraft and helicopters for anti-armour combat and use of NH weapons, there is little likelihood of achieving the objective with the existing forces.

Expect minor ŠTS forces in the following sectors of the Brigade’s zone of defence:
Ovčarevo village, Petrovica, Kosmač, Drenica and Čičavica; they will predominantly attack lone motor vehicles and small convoys with sniper fire, ambushes and surprise attacks, with a simple objective in support of the NATO aggression against the FRY of inflicting as much damage as possible to the Brigade’s units, prevent securing and organising the assigned zones, instil insecurity and fear, and hamper the regular and safe supply of the units, delivery and evacuation.

Str. conf. no. 307-2

TO PRISTINA CORPS COMMAND

Report including a proposal of measures
Re: Your Order str. conf. no. 455-199 of 1 May 1999

Pursuant to the document, reference number and date cited above, we hereby report to you the following:

1. On the basis of the assigned borders of the zone of responsibility, the brigade command has synchronised its defence documents. Likewise, the areas of responsibilities for the subordinate units have been defined.

2. We believe that it is necessary to emphasise the following once again:
- that relative to the current zone, the new z/o /zone of responsibility/ is even bigger and that it has been extended;
- that the brigade in the zone has no units attached or any other to reinforce it (VtOd /military territorial detachment/ and the like);
- that the MUP /Ministry of the Interior/ units are not in the zone yet, under the command of the brigade, because they are allegedly waiting for an order from their superiors;
- that the zone of the brigade is very complex and still has a large number of ŠTS /Šiptar /Albanian Terrorist Forces/.
For these reasons, it is our realistic assessment that with the current forces we cannot control the whole zone successfully.
With regard to this, I would like to ask you to reconsider our previous proposal to reinforce the brigade with at least one more motorised battalion, and that, through the organs in charge, speed up the process of re-subordination of the MUP units to the brigade commanders in the defence zones, in order to use them more appropriately.

<td>During the night and the following day, the NATO Air Force targeted electronic jamming, present both within the communications within the Brigade. The activities of brigade units were aimed at implementing the decision regarding the capture and the destruction of enemy 'flak' guns and 'flak' defense systems. In addition, the Brigade also continued the activities aimed at making a record of minefields for defense units.</td>

Kosovo Police

Commander

Mladen Cirkovic
Pursuant to the order of the 3rd Army Commander, strictly confidential number 872-159/1 of 25 May 1999, on 27 May 1999 a team from the 3rd Army Command IMK /Forward Command Post/ carried out an inspection of the 2nd Army’s 37th mbr which is subordinated to the 3rd Army’s PrK /Priština Corps/ in the execution of tasks in Kosovo and Metohija.

The inspection included: Brigade Command with the PJ /headquarters support units/, 3rd mbr /Motorised Battalion/, had /Howitzer Artillery Battalion/, ard PVO /Anti-Aircraft Defence Artillery Rocket Battalion/, part of the Engineering Battalion /inžb/ and the Logistics Battalion /požb/.

On the whole, the inspection revealed the following:

a). – Positive solutions:

- The Brigade Command is systematically maintaining and building up the combat readiness of commands and units,
- life and work are organised in accordance with combat environment,
- decisions of the Corps Commander and the Brigade Commander on the use of the Brigade in combat were executed, with minor omissions, at all levels of command,
- combat documents were worked out in accordance with the Commander’s decision, albeit with minor omissions,
- all members of the brigade are aware of their tasks and the task of the unit,
- Brigade units have taken up the planned defence sectors - positions,
- necessary security measures have been taken,
- the logistics support system functions well,
- use of ammunition is rational,
- combat morale in the brigade is at the required level,
- measures have been taken to prevent desertion from the Brigade.

b). – Weaknesses, mistakes and failings:

- Parts of combat documents are incomplete, particularly in the 3rd mbr /Motorised Battalion/,
- defence sectors and firing positions are insufficiently fortified,
- some members of the Brigade, reservists in particular, are insufficiently trained for the execution of unit-specific tasks,
- the ard PVO of the Priština Military District Command /KVO/k/ resubordinated to the Brigade because it cannot be used in combat due to the lack of vehicles and crews,
- some volunteers in the idč /reconnaissance and sabotage company/ are not disciplined,
- some troops are engaged for other purposes (the ard PVO, the engineering battalion and the logistics battalion on the dispersion of the ŠTS /Siptar /Albanian/ terrorist forces/),
- weapons /UoB/ are concentrated in one location,
- firefighting support in the p/s /auxiliary forces/ is insufficient,
- there is not enough information on the state of material supplies /MS/,
- some of the senior officers needed by the Brigade have stayed behind in the Raška
Garrison,
- the Brigade failed to bring some equipment it was required to bring according to war-time establishment /RF/.

c). – Problems:

- Part of the 7th pbr /Infantry Brigade/ abandoned their positions, compromising the Brigade’s right flank,
- lack of commanding and other senior personnel (13 platoon commanders, one company commander, one battery commander and a NSnSI /chief of medical service/are missing),
- MUP /Ministry of the Interior/ forces in the sector are not resubordinated to the Brigade Command,
- lack of communications equipment (three MKŠK-1 /small command-and-staff vehicles/, 20 Motorolas, 10 RU2/2K radio sets, 86 field telephones, 24 PTK /field telephone cables/, 12 RRU-1 /radio relay sets/ and five TLCI-10 /inductor switchboards/),
- lack of flak jackets and passive night vision and shooting devices,
- required: 680 helmets, 700 folding entrenching tools and three range finders,
- lack of quartermaster equipment (400 pairs of boots, 5,600 camouflage shirts, 1,200 sleeping bags, 200 military berets and 600 VJ /Yugoslav Army/ insignia),
- vehicles are insufficient and inadequate,
- some engineering machines, artillery weapons and vehicles are in disrepair,
- some engineering sets are incomplete and there is a shortage of pioneer tools.

Conclusion:

On the whole, the situation in the Brigade is good and allows for a successful execution of combat tasks. The above and other weaknesses, mistakes and failings - caused by the lack of responsibility on the part of certain senior officers and the Brigade Command - were pointed out on the spot.

Proposed measures:

a) Brigade level:

1.– Deal with the observed weaknesses, mistakes and failings as soon as possible.

b) Corps Command level (Priština Corps and UK /Užice Corps/):

1.– If possible, bring the Brigade up to the required levels of personnel and materiel.
2. Make sure that faulty equipment is repaired.

c) Army Command level (2nd Army and 3rd Army):

1. Bring the Brigade up to required personnel levels.
2. Bring the Brigade up to required materiel levels.
3. Ensure repair of materiel in bad condition.

The following situation was observed during the inspection of the 3rd Motorised Battalion of the 37th Motorised Brigade:
- The Battalion took control of the following defence sector: Gladno Selo - tt /trig point/ 756 (Lipoglav) - Gornji Grabovac (the width of the defence sector is approximately 12 km).

1. The Commander ordered the defence to be ready at 0600 hours on 24 May but, according to the statement of the Battalion Commander, a verbal order was subsequently issued, pushing it back by one day.

2. The Battalion Commander’s decision was relayed to his subordinates but no supporting documents (diagrams, decisions, orders etc.) were found in either the Command or the subordinate units.

3. Battalion Manning Levels:
   - Numerical strength: 806 men or 105%,
   - approximately 85% troops are present, with an average of 100 to 120 men absent for various reasons (injured, wounded, absent without leave, etc.).

4. The engineering work that was ordered has not been carried out in full. Very little has been done to fortify the area, there are no shelters for artillery weapons or troops because the unit is carrying out other tasks - primarily mopping up the terrain of ŠTS.

5. Combat equipment is in very good condition (none in bad condition);
- Except in the 3rd tank platoon /v/ of the 1st tank company /v/ which has been seconded to the battalion: one T-55 tank has ignition problems. The Battalion’s 31 cargo vehicles are not fit for the purpose (there are 15 cargo vehicles from the list and they are having difficulty driving off-road, particularly in the 120 mm mb the mortar company). Tractors are currently being used to solve the problem.

6. Quartermaster support is at a level which enables the execution of tasks. However:
- There is a shortage of: 350 sets of M-77 camouflage clothes, 1,300 shirts and approximately 700 pairs of socks,
- there is a shortage of 100 pairs of boots of various sizes.

7. Command and Communications:
- The Battalion KM /Command Post/ was established at the Ladrovac village sector (NE of Staro Čikatovo village),
- radio (partial) and courier communications have been established, but no wire communications.

Conclusion:

- The unit’s combat morale is very good, there have been no negative behaviour or problems which would significantly erode the unit’s morale and bring into question the execution of its tasks in the future.
Proposed measures:

1. Draft necessary combat documents at all unit levels:
   - Responsible: Battalion Command, deadline: Immediate.

2. Carry out necessary engineering works to required level:
   - Responsible: Battalion Command in co-operation with the Brigade Command.

3. Replenish the 120 mm Mortar Company with six vehicles:
   - Responsible: PkPo /Assistant Commander for Logistics/ in co-operation with the Priština Corps Command and the logistics organ of the 3rd Army İKM /Forward Command Post/.

4. Supply clothes and footwear in accordance with the quantities available at the logistics organs (footwear, i.e. boots, are a priority).
   - Responsible: Brigade Assistant Commander for Logistics /PkPo/ in co-operation with the logistics organs of the Priština Corps and the 3rd Army Forward Command Post.
